SAR

This model meets international guidelines and EU requirements for exposure to radio waves. Your wireless device is a radio transmitter and receiver. It is designed not to exceed radio wave exposure limits recommended by international guidelines. These guidelines were developed by the independent scientific organisation ICNIRP and include safety margins designed to assure the protection of all persons, regardless of age and health.

These guidelines also form the basis of international regulations and standards on RF Exposure.

The guidelines use a unit of measurement known as the Specific Absorption Rate, or SAR. The SAR limit for wireless devices is 2 W/kg. The highest SAR value for this device tested at the ear was 0.450 W/kg.

As SAR is measured utilizing the devices highest transmitting power the actual SAR of this unit while operating is typically below that indicated above. This is due to automatic changes to the power level of the device to ensure it only uses the minimum level required to communicate with the network.
